Yachting Circles Once More Agog Over Challenge From Sir Thomas Lipton.

The Afth challenge by Sir Thomas for the America's Cup emphathe fact that for persistency, pertiand perseverance the Britist Pachtsman is without a peer. At the same time it cannot be denied that a large number of British peers are inter-

For sixty-seven years British design ers have sought to construct a yacht ith sufficient speed to win the blue ribon of the seas from the American defender, and disheartening fallure has marked each attempt.

The present challenger has been trying for nineteen years to regain the cov-to regain the con-eted trophy, pinning his faith to boats named Shamrock, but each Shamrock met the sams fate.

Sir Thomas had arrived here with Shamfock IV. In 1914, ready for another tilt with the American defending boat, when the war broke and put an end to the grout so far as the submarine inthe sport so far as the submarine in sted ocean was concerned. Now, with the coming of peace, the Trish baronet returns in an attempt to

If the Cup.

The history of this celebrated yachting trophy is peculiarly interesting, as well as particularly irritating to English yachtsmen, due as much to the unexpected manner in which they lost the trophy as to the determined way in evades the restrictions. Beauty has

While the English designers clung to the cutter style the schooners gave way to sloops, and the Americans produced the skimming dish type with centreboard. It did not appear to make much differ-ence what new schemes were hatched by the British designers, for the Americans always had the speedlest boat when they cleared away from the starting line
